Walnut Creek, CA : 925-988-3200

Brian Morrow is a partner in the firm's Walnut Creek office. As both a professional civil engineer and lawyer, Brian helps owners, developers, designers and builders navigate and solve their problems to enhance their opportunities.

Brian focuses his practice in the areas of complex construction law, with an emphasis on construction contracting and litigation, insurance law, real estate litigation and business litigation. He understands the complexity of the Construction industry; after all, he has focused the entirety of his career in it, partnering with clients throughout the business process. As a seasoned litigator, Brian handles:

- Claims litigation, focused primarily on the preparation, negotiation and litigation of claims to help his clients receive additional time and money. This includes the analysis of complex factual and legal issues and strategizing with clients to achieve their goals.
- Counseling contractors and owners regarding the drafting and negotiating of contract terms and agreements.
- Real-time advice during construction, including claims avoidance and resolution.
- Alternative dispute resolution and litigation, including in State and Federal courts nationwide, ADR forums such as the American Arbitration Association or JAMS, and governmental and administrative agencies.

Brian's practice includes a wide variety of projects, ranging from residential construction to commercial design and construction and industrial and heavy civil construction, including roads and bridges, transportation and water projects, and power and manufacturing plants.
